

Eight dogs in cages,
 some BIG and some small.
 How can she choose one?
 When she wants
THEM ALL!

FOURFOOT PRESS proudly announces
I LIKE DOGS,
 a new picture book about dog adoption
 for children ages 5 & up.

written by Debra Cheehy illustrated by Carol Hilliard

Each year, millions of dogs are abandoned across the United States. Join Amanda May as she takes matters into her own hands, determined to find homes for every dog at her local animal shelter. Much to her delight, each dog displays a unique talent that wins the heart of it's adoptive owner. In return for this special gift, each new owner promises to love and properly care for the dog—as all dogs deserve.

Like Amanda, FOURFOOT PRESS is committed to helping homeless dogs. This book aims to broaden public awareness of their plight, an awareness that has never been keener. Everyday, headlines report puppy mill raids, or new legislation protecting our four footed friends. A generous portion of the proceeds from I LIKE DOGS will be donated to shelters and breed rescues across the nation, as well as fund educational programs in schools and online.

 This book is a tremendous advocate to the mission of rescuing our best friends, and to understanding the effort and commitment required to rescue an animal that all children and adults can appreciate."*

about the author: DEBRA CHEEHY

From the time Debra was a little girl, lost animals always seemed to “find” her. She realized her calling in life when she brought home her first stray at the age of five. Little did she know she was to be a midwife to the pregnant black cat. Since that time, she has embraced her work. With the help of her husband and four children, she has fostered and placed hundreds of animals. In addition to her individual rescue efforts, she volunteered with the Johnson County Humane Society in Texas. Starting as a foster home, she later became the president. Debra has devoted her life to helping animals in need.

Her children’s book, I LIKE DOGS, is based on her experiences during her time with the Humane Society. She always wanted to take them all.

Debra lives in Woodbridge, Virginia with her husband, four dogs, and the animals that stop in from time to time.

about the illustrator: CAROL HILLIARD

While very pleased to have I LIKE DOGS as her debut to illustrating and designing children’s books, Carol is no stranger to dogs. She grew up showing Collies and now volunteers with local shelters and Doberman rescues. A native of Carlisle, Pennsylvania, Carol spent much of her childhood drawing pictures of the animals on the family farm. In fact, all she could draw were animals. When an art teacher told her she would fail if she drew another horse in class, Carol was devastated. But looking back, she is grateful for this “gentle nudge” to broaden her skills. Teachers know best, don’t they?

Now, many years later, Carol is an Emmy-Award winning Art Director in Washington, D.C. Her graphic design and animation company lends a creative eye to such clients as the National Gallery of Art, Franklin Institute Science Museum, Library of Congress, HBO, PBS, National Geographic and Discovery Channel.

Carol lives on Capitol Hill with a pair of very silly rescued red Dobermans.
